Professional Experience

I have had a passion for financial education all my life. This passion and drive led me to a career that offers the pathway to helping families become debt free and plan their retirement while protecting what they work a lifetime for.

I thrive on educating young adults about money, interest rates and saving for their future. I incorporate the principals I taught my own two children about money and savings.

I am a big advocate for incorporating financial education curriculum in schools, starting at a young age. We teach our children everything about the world, including history, geography, and mathematics. But we don't show them how to apply what they learn to everyday adult life. I believe in the power of education but it needs to incorporate the main component of a necessity for living our daily lives, and that is money.

My mission is to reach 10,000 families by the 2020.

"I started this group March of 2015. I'm a Registered Dental Hygienist and have a degree in business management and administration. I had a business consulting firm years back. The main purpose of the group was to bring the ladies of our community together in a stressless forum in the hopes of cheering them up, reduce stress and create new options for them to positivity change their lives.

When I started the group I had a couple of friends in mind going through devastating personal situations and this group made it easy for them to get distracted few minutes a day from their cruel reality. I have always wanted to make a difference for our women, strengthen them, empower and support their dreams. At the same time, I wanted to see how I can help increase exposure of their projects and businesses without forgetting our feminine needs and moods and balancing it all. While being philanthropic and supporting several non-profits to give back to the local community."

People ask why urgent care instead of the ER? Emergency centers are much more expensive than urgent care services because emergency room resources are sparse and intended to only be used for serious, life-threatening issues.

At American Family Care, our mission is to provide the best healthcare possible in a kind, caring environment
